Addressing Discrimination and Harassment

It is against UMD Policy and against the law to treat people unfairly because of their religious beliefs, age, race, sex, color, country of birth, marital status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, personal appearance, physical or mental disability, genetic information, political affiliation, or any other characteristic protected by law. Complaints of discrimination—unfair treatment based on any of the above categories—at the University should be directed to the Office of Civil Rights & Sexual Misconduct (OCRSM).

In addition, please be aware of the following resources that address different forms of discrimination and provide important information regarding your rights, including federal and state laws, definitions, and campus resources to assist students, staff and faculty.

Personal Appearance

“Personal appearance” means the outward appearance of any person irrespective of sex with regard to hairstyle, beards, or manner of dress. It shall not relate, however, to the requirement of cleanliness, uniforms, or prescribed attire when uniformly applied for admittance to a public accommodation or a class of employees for a customary or reasonable business-related purpose.

Political Affiliation

Discrimination based on political affiliation is prohibited.

Retaliation

Retaliation is action taken against an individual because they reported discrimination, filed a complaint of discrimination, or participated in an investigation or proceeding concerning a discrimination complaint. Retaliation can include intimidating, threatening, coercing, or in any way discriminating against the individual.

Civil Rights Enforcement Agencies

- U.S. Department of Education, Office for Civil Rights (OCR) enforces several Federal civil rights laws that prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, disability, or age in education programs or activities that receive federal financial assistance from the Department of Education.
- Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) enforces federal laws prohibiting discrimination against a job applicant or employee because of the person's race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy, gender identity, and sexual orientation), national origin, age (40 or older), disability or genetic information. It is also illegal to discriminate against a person because the person complained about discrimination or participated in an employment discrimination investigation. The laws apply to all types of work situations, including hiring, firing, promotions, harassment, training, wages, and benefits.
- Maryland Commission on Civil Rights (MCCR) works to ensure opportunity for all through the enforcement of Maryland’s laws against discrimination in employment, housing, public accommodations, and state contracts; provide educational outreach services related to provisions of these laws; and promote and improve civil rights in Maryland.
- U.S. Department of Labor has two agencies that deal with monitoring and enforcement of the Equal Employment Opportunity laws prohibiting specific types of job discrimination in certain workplaces, the Civil Rights Center and the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs.
- US Department of Justice, Educational Opportunities Section is responsible for enforcing the federal laws prohibiting discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion and disability in public schools and institutions of higher learning.

Addressing Non-Discriminatory Harassment

Harassment that is not specifically based on a protected characteristic is also prohibited at the University of Maryland. Depending on the nature of the complaint and the status of the persons involved (i.e., faculty, students, administrators, staff, vendors, or visitors to campus), complaints or concerns regarding non-discriminatory harassment that cannot be resolved informally can be directed to one of the following entities on campus:
